Walker, Pritchard unseated - Gambell holds on by only seven

Haliburton County residents went to the polls Monday to elect a new municipal council for the next three years. When the dust had settled late in the evening it appeared obvious that voters in a number of jurisdictions were in the mood for change.

The largest upset occurred in Anson, Hindon and Minden townships where the incumbent reeve and deputy reeve, Lloyd Walker and Doug Pritchard were swept from office. They both faced tough opposition in two members of municipal council who could claim experience and know-how, two qualities required to head a municipality. Councillor Lyle McKnight challenged the reeve while Councillor Ed Pergolas was vying for the deputy's position.

McKnight's win was the most dramatic as he eclipsed the incumbent reeve by nearly 600 votes. The challenger was able to amass a total of 1027 votes to Walker's 434. McKnight gathered strength from all corners of the municipality, defeating the current reeve in all polls.

The win by Pergolas was similar to that managed by McKnight in that he claimed a victory at each of the polling stations. However, his margin over the incumbent, Doug Pritchard was not as large. Pergolas drew 889 votes to 562 for Pritchard. The difference was 327.

Close race

In another surprising race, Lutterworth Reeve Ron Gambell managed to hang onto his position by a mere seven votes. The two-term reeve of Lutterworth polled 225 voted to 218 from the challenger Ron Caney.

The challenger mounted a strong campaign, visiting with many of the township's residents on more than one occasion, pressing his candidacy. The effort obviously paid off as Caney came within just a few votes of unseating the incumbent.

Reeve Gambell gave the challenger credit for his aggressive campaign activity saying, "There was a message in the vote from the public."

The reeve said he felt the residents of the township had been satisfied with his leadership. He said the results of the election surprised and shocked him.

However, the reeve indicated he would carry on in the interests of all residents of the township, with particular emphasis on the municipality's industrial park. Prior to the election he had promised that two or three industries would locate there. He said he would make an effort to broaden the tax base of the community by attracting industrial development and commercial enterprises to Lutterworth.

Deputy unseated

One other surprise in the municipal election was the defeat of deputy reeve Carmen Coumbs in Monmouth Township. A veteran politician, Coumbs was defeated by just five votes. Harry E. Earl was the victor, polling 236 to Coumbs 231. Earl will serve with Keith Tallman who was acclaimed reeve in Monmouth Township.

New faces

Newcomers claimed first and second places in the council race in Anson, Hindon and Minden. Gary Kenney, who announced his candidacy in mid-summer and campaigned vigorously through to polling day, saw his efforts pay off with a first place finish. He garnered 746 votes to lead the polls. Another newcomer, Pat Burk, placed second in the voting drawing 605 votes while the incumbent Larry Cummins is the third and final councillor elected. He received 529 votes.

Snowdon reeve

A challenge by deputy reeve of Snowdon Township, John Francis, was turned aside easily by the municipality's incumbent reeve, Bob Vick. He claimed 238 votes to 173 for Francis. The spread indicates that Vick still commands strength in the township to the east of Minden.

A three way race for the second chair at the Snowdon council chamber saw councillor Dwain Wruth take top spot. He defeated Fred Simmons and Walter McMullan with 169 votes to their 134 and 95, respectively.

Dysart races

In Dysart, where the reeve and deputy reeve were acclaimed to office, interest centered on a number of ward races for council and the seven way race for the four seats on the board of education.

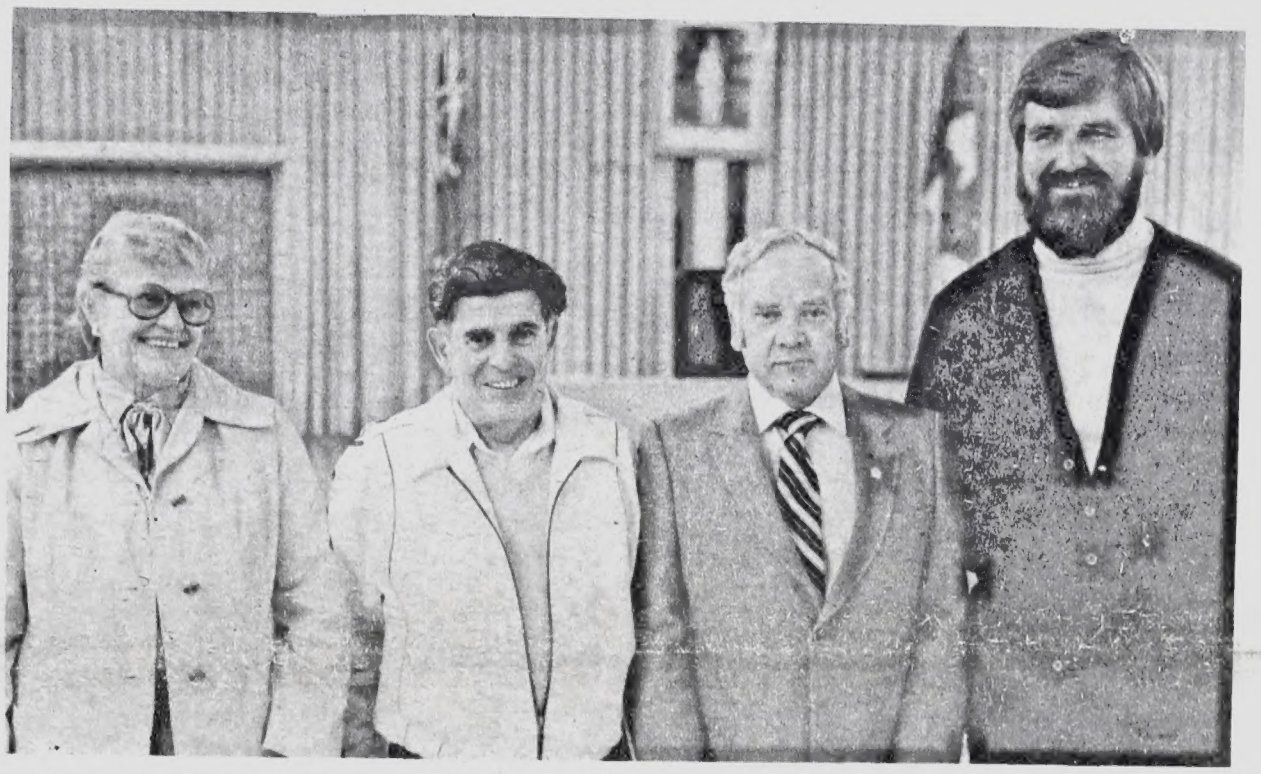
The Ward One council race, which covers Haliburton Village and was the most hotly contested of the council contests, saw Dorothy Baker claim victory with a total of 277. R. J. Bishop Jr. was second, almost 100 votes back at 186.

The education contest saw three incumbents returned to office, one defeated and a new face added to the representatives from Dysart et al. Incumbent Leonard Salvatori led the education race with 1214 votes. He was followed by former trustees Nancy Stinson 991 and Paul Wilson, 923. The fourth incumbent, Derrel Stamp placed fifth, being defeated by Blair Pierce who polled 827 votes to Stamp's 818.

Stanhope council

Incumbent Elvin Johnson retained his seat and led the polls on the Stanhope municipal council. He was elected with a total of 317 votes. Other successful candidates included Dale MacDonald with 309 votes and Ann Barker with 273.

For a complete report of municipal election results from Haliburton County and surrounding area, please turn to pages two and three.



Successful Anson, Hindon and Minden candidates beam with delight following the announcement of the results Monday evening at the Municipal office. The municipality's new council will include, from the right, councillor Pat Burk, Deputy-reeve Ed Pergolas, Reeve Lyle McKnight and councillor Gary Kenney. Third councillor, Larry Cummins was not in attendance.

Accepting a cheque from Kinmount President Norman Gilmore and Vice-president Fred Knight are nursing administrator Jean Anderson and Dr. J. Lodenquai. The donation will go towards a new portable cardiac monitor.

Cottage destroyed

Damages totalled about $40,000 when a cottage caught fire October 30 at Big Bob Lake.

Minden Fire Chief William Jackson said that the cottage, a sleeper cabin and about half an acre of land, was destroyed.

"The cottage was completely engulfed with flames before we got there," he said. "We stayed there until about 6:00 p.m."

The cottage belonged to George Crawford of Bolton. He reported he left the cottage at about 11:00 the morning of the 30th. The fire brigade arrived at the fire about 2:20 p.m. after a call from people across the lake.

Everyone's responsibility

Elections, and the changes that come with them, always bring a sense of renewal and optimism to a community. In many municipalities across the county, this feeling will be evident in the coming months.

While some of the euphoria of these fresh beginnings may fade as the reality of the situation becomes more evident, political leaders can also take advantage of this positive momentum to help make bold changes that otherwise might be difficult to accomplish. There is no doubt that the next three years will be difficult ones. The economy will put new stress on municipal councils at the same time that demands from all sectors of the society they serve will require attention.

The councillors who will take their oaths early next month will need the support and assistance of everyone who cares about the future of their municipality. Voting is perhaps the most important single act of our democratic tradition, but it is, by no means, the only responsibility citizens bear. It is only with everyone's help that our elected officials can hope to make a meaningful contribution to the community's betterment.

A sacred trust

Tomorrow, across the country, Canadians mark the cessation of hostilities in several world conflicts. As distant as those conflicts now seem, it is important we remember the sacrifice made by all service personnel in the defense of our country.

November 11 should also be the date on which we renew our commitment that the world will not be torn apart again by war. The total destruction which man now can inflict on his fellow inhabitants of planet earth far outstrip that which any veteran can imagine.

Their sacrifice was made to ensure our peace. They have entrusted that peace to us. We cannot fail them for there will be no second chance.

Reflections

Restraint changes

- by John Eakins, M.P.P. -

The Liberal Party has proposed amendments to the restraint program, to be considered during committee clause by clause deliberation. These proposed amendments are intended to reflect many of the concerns of union leaders, workers and business representatives.

Many groups have suggested only one change...the total withdrawal of the legislation. However, our party's view is that the imposition of a restraint program is a necessary, if small, first step in putting this Province back on the road to prosperity. Nevertheless, the government's proposed restraint program needs to be amended to provide equity and fairness.

The public sector must be assured that it will not be the only sector singled out to make a sacrifice, that there is no question of double jeopardy ... that bargaining rights will be preserved in as wide an area as possible ... that those who depend on their salaries for day to day existence will not be crippled by restraint ... that all groups drawing money from the public purse are affected ... that the Inflation Restraint Board will be made accountable ... and finally, that prices not just wages in the public sector will be subject to the same restraint.

Here are some of the highlights of the proposed amendments:

1. Restores due process, provides hearings for employees before the Board, provides for written decisions with reasons, and provides a mechanism for appeal of those decisions.

2. The legislation does not mandate a nine per cent increase in the transition year, and the least we can do is protect the public sector from the whim of an employer who might try to circumvent the intent of the increase in the transition year.

3. The government Bill treats union and non-union public sector workers differently during the control year in refusing to mandate a minimum increase of five per cent for all workers caught by this legislation. Our amendment would correct that deficiency.

4. The legislation has a tragic effect on low income categories simply struggling to make ends meet. We propose mandating a minimum increase of $1,200 during the control year - such an increase is necessary for lower economic levels to keep pace with the ravages of inflation.

5. Teachers have made a compelling case against the merit pay provisions. We propose to scrap that section, to remove the double and triple jeopardy imposed upon some public sector workers.

6. We believe that if this Bill is for the Restraint of Compensation, then in limiting the rights of free collective bargaining, we should allow the bargaining process to go forward unemcumbered in all areas outside the provision of wages and fringe benefits, and we will present an appropriate amendment.

7. On the price side, we will present several amendments. The first will allow the Board

The Haliburton County Snowmobile Association's annual meeting is being held this Saturday, November 13, at the Minden Firehall at 7 p.m. sharp.

An important vote is being held that will directly concern you as an A.T.C. owner. They will be asking the members in attendance to decide whether A.T.C's should be allowed on the trail systems maintained by the H.C.S.A.

As dealers in both snowmobiles and A.T.C's, we believe that the two entities can function together to the mutual benefit of both. There is a large portion of the winter months when an A.T.C. will, in our opinion, be a heck of a lot of fun (as the later months of the winter past demonstrated). In addition, the potential amount of monies to be generated by the A.T.C. owners through memberships will certainly be of benefit in maintaining smooth trails in the approaching months.

We therefore would appreciate your representation at the upcoming meeting.

In the air

Stories by Jamie Friel

In 1914 the airplane was little more than a spindly wood frame covered with canvas. In some mysterious fashion an engine was attached and man flew, constantly aware that any malfunction could signal his end.

Henry (Harry) Robinson, was a 17 year old in Toronto who set his sights on flying in the Royal Air Corps when the war broke out. He had been dreaming of flying since Orville and Wilbur Wright first did so at Kitty Hawk.

After the First World War started Harry went to join the Canadian army after seeing an ad "in the Toronto paper". Harry was too young to fly and so he drove trucks. There was a shortage of truck drivers then and mechanical transport took him on.

May 1915 and Harry found himself in England. "I had interesting experiences in England," he said. More training came on top of the five months he had had in Canada.

Eventually he was in Belgium taking part in the combat by driving ammunition trucks. "I was at the second battle of Ypres," he recalled.

He developed an abhorrence of war in Belgium. "I don't like war. I hate the word."

May 8, 1916, on his 19th birthday Harry received the necessary commission and transferred to the Royal Flying Corps (there wasn't a Canadian Flying Corps at the time) and realized a childhood dream. Despite the fact he was realizing a life-long ambition, Harry was also aware of the grim statistics for members of the air corps ... the average life expectancy of a flyer at that time was three weeks.

Harry enjoyed the life of a student for three months at the famous Oxford University. While there an English girl taught him to paddle a canoe. "I was never one for water until I saw Violet Baker in a bathing suit," he said laughing.

After Oxford, training began on the French built Maurice Farman plane, otherwise known as Shorthorns. The Shorthorns had skids at the front of the plane and the engine "at the back of your neck." One of the men Harry trained with, Alec Forbes, later became prime minister of Australia.

A year after first being exposed to the realities of war Harry received his wings and was stationed about 15 miles from Amiens in Estere-Blanche.

He was assigned to the 22nd Squadron flying offensive patrols and escorting bombers in a two seater Bristol fighter.

On November 8, 1917 the squadron encountered a German patrol and after a dog fight two of the squadron's planes were shot down. One of them was Harry's.

"There weren't any parachutes, of course. It was like the captain of a steamship then, you had to go down with your plane. I guess it was heritage from the British."

Harry was not injured but the bullet that cut through the gas tanks found a resting place in his observer's back.

Captain Harry Robinson, 1919.

Harry was captured after being shot down and spent a month in a holding camp in Munich after which he was transferred to a resort hotel by the Harz mountains. "At that time the flying corps of both sides were given

On land

Charlie Yateman, 1982.

"Why did you join the army?"

"I've never been able to answer that question."

Charles (Charlie) Yateman entered the army at 18 in October 1941. The young man from Port Credit trained in Canada for four months and then was sent to Britain for more training. There were competitions against other regiments and various "schemes", primarily Spartan and Tiger schemes. During one scheme, a radio announcer from Germany, known to everyone as Lord Haw Haw, cut across the radio and said "I see (Canadian Commander in Chief) McNaughton's travelling circus is on the road again," Charlie related, chuckling.

During all this training Charlie found time to be married in 1943. And then the invasion of Europe started on D-Day, June 6, 1944.

Yateman belonged to the 4th armoured division in the Lincoln-Welland regiment as infantry support for tanks.

"We didn't like the tanks because they used to draw a lot of fire when they started up but they were nice because they had a lot of fire too."

However the fire power was not as powerful as that the German Panzers could dispense. The biggest Canadian gun was usually a 105 while the panzers had 88 mm cannon.

"A couple of days after the invasion, June 8, we were dug in around Caen. (We had a hell of a job there. We were holed up for quite a bit.) There was a Canadian medical station not too far from us. I got up one morning and I saw a guy carrying a tank across a field. I thought 'the kid's off his rocker' but it was an inflatable tank used to make the Germans think you had more firepower. Made you feel good to think we had fire support even if it was only full of hot air."

"I was wounded on the 4th of July...for the first time. I went back to England." Charlie was wounded again October 1944 and then his most serious injury was inflicted February 1945. He was hit in the back and received a tremor wound "when your insides get shaken around a bit."

He was carried back to his lines to the first aid post there but by a couple of unlikely Samaritans.

"The Germans weren't all that bad. Two Germans carried me back to our lines to the first aid post. They might have wanted to surrender but they didn't have to carry me.

"If anybody ever told you they weren't scared they must have been built of different stuff than me. If a guy wasn't scared, he must have been crazy."

It was a difficult task for "green" or inexperienced men to associate with the events around them. Charlie saw a cow lying in a field bawling insistently. His battle experience made him automatically expect the cow to be injured by shrapnel. Then a calf shakily gained its feet. It was the first time he had seen a cow give birth.

Another time Charlie told some "green kids" the Germans were sending over the "sobbing sisters". The "sobbing sisters" was a nickname for a cluster of German mortars. Charlie quickly dove for cover while the new recruits looked for a group of women.

Yateman's memories of a particularily vicious battle in Holland are partially soothed by the kindness of the Dutch people.

Kapelsheveer, an island in the Maas river was a strategic position the Allies needed but held a well fortified German contingent.

Polish troops and British commandos went against the island without success and then the job fell to the

At sea

On April 17, 1942, 21 year old Bruce McKay of Woodstock, Ontario decided to do his bit for King and country and joined the Royal Canadian Navy.

Bruce had never even seen the sea, but had read of the various exploits of the "Senior Service" and made the committment to become part of that brave group. He was assigned after training to a corvette, the "Ville de Quebec" a 200 foot long ship with a crew of approximately 75. McKay began his sea career as an Ordinary seaman and soon graduated to Able Seaman Gunner.

Their first tour of duty was as escort to the convoys of merchant marine ships which crossed the Atlantic bringing supplies to Britain. In the fall of 1942, 17 Canadian corvettes were assigned to the Mediterranean escorting supplies for the North African campaign.

They shuttled between Gibraltar and Algiers and while serving in the Med, McKay recalls 3 escort ships being sunk by German submarines. "It was a horrible feeling to know that the Germans were there," he says. However, on January 13, 1943, his ship's crew celebrated the destruction of three enemy submarines and "got some of our own back!" He described the action. "We laid depth charges and more or less blew the sub out of the water, when she came to the surface, the guns took over and just to make sure, we rammed the thing." The German gun captain survived the fracas and was taken on board as a prisoner of war. The "Ville de Quebec" had to return to Canada for refitting after that episode.

McKay recalls his experiences on the Atlantic run - the weather was awful and on one particular occasion, they were escorting a convoy of 80 ships to England - one night they lost four of the convoy and the next night three, from submarine attacks. The ship picked up 56 survivors and made their way to Liverpool arriving three weeks after leaving Newfoundland. The top speed was 5 knots all the way across and McKay says he felt the voyage was taking "forever". He gave up his hammock to one of the survivors who had a broken arm and spent the rest of the voyage sleeping on deck wrapped in a sheepskin coat.

After the North African adventure, and the refitting of the vessel they were sent to do escort duty once again across the Atlantic and up and down the English channel after D-Day. He recalls seeing, "Lots of ships sunk and VI and V2 'Buzz' bombs going overhead on their way to do more damage in England." They sailed continuously from Milford Haven in Wales to Southend on the Thames in London.

When asked if he had been afraid or seasick McKay replied, "Well - I guess I was one of the lucky ones - I was never seasick and some poor guys spent the trip just hanging over the side." As to being afraid he said, "We were all afraid, but once you realised the guy next to you was just as scared, you had to try to make him feel better and in that way made yourself a bit braver."

He also said he had the greatest admiration for the Merchant Marine. "You really had to admire those guys," he says. "They carried on through it all."

One of his more memorable experiences was taking part in an awards ceremony at Buckingham Palace, at which King George VI and Queen Elizabeth (now the Queen Mother) were present. Several weeks ago here, we mentioned that the Haliburton County Snowmobile Association had followed "the only logical course of actio ." in joining the Ontario Trail Builder Alliance. It was anticipated at the time that the Paudash Trail Blazers and the Dorset club would likely follow suit. They didn't. Both of these organizations have retained their membership in the Ontario Federation of Snowmobile Clubs whose co-operative funding program was found unacceptable to the H.C.S.A.

It is not for us to judge the decisions of any of these organizations. They all made the choice that appeared to be the right one for their respective clubs according to their own circumstances and priorities. The unfortunate thing is that there had to be a choice made at all. The snowmobile industry, and its tourism potential, is being stifled by a war that has been going on far too long between these two bodies who each claim to represent the snowmobiler of Ontario.

The Alliance was started a few years ago because they claimed the Federation did not adequately reflect the needs of the clubs such as H.C.S.A. whose main function is to build and groom trails. In the middle of all this has been the provincial government struggling with which one to listen to and how best to get out from under the burden of trail funding. The M.N.R. has handled that problem poorly, but rightfully blame the problems on the unnecessary confusion surrounding this battle between the Alliance and the Federation.

It is bad enough to have the province divided on this issue, but now our County is divided as well. The eastern portion is served by the Paudash Club and the north corner by the Dorset club while the H.C.S.A. looks after the balance. H.C.S.A. members will be able to ride both here and on trails to the west throughout Huronia with their Alliance affiliation. Paudash and Dorset members may ride further east and south on Federation Trails with further fees. In order to run on both trail networks the only logical solution is to buy memberships in both clubs. Many have already indicated their intention to do this.

One thing is for certain... the free ride is over. A few M.N.R. trails remain the only place you can ride groomed trails for nothing and these are scheduled to be turned over to the appropriate clubs within the next few years. Membership in H.C.S.A. is $15.00 per sled at present and in Paudash $10.00 per family plus $10.00 per sled. Both clubs will have weekend memberships available for visitors who have no appropriate memberships.

Look-alike invoices

The incredible number of look-a-like invoice mailings that keep showing up indicates how lucrative this "racket" must be. Obviously many businesses are letting these bills slip through and paying them without realizing what they are doing.

The latest one to appear is from Intra Canada Telecommunication and carries a copy of what appears to be your yellow page listing. This company is not in any way connected with the Bell Telephone and you should be aware that business phones have a free listing in the yellow pages.

If you receive one of these solicitations that look like an invoice we suggest you place the bill in the return envelope provided and seal it without a cheque enclosed. If they pay postage due on enough of these without cheques enclosed their scheme may prove less lucrative.

Dixieland Ambassadors plan tour

One of the highlights of the Chamber's annual meeting last month was the entertainment supplied by the Dixieland Ambassadors. This talented group of Haliburton High School students has made quite a name for itself since being formed last spring. Last summer they had help from Toronto student Wendy Laking who was working in Haliburton for the summer and Wendy still joins the band whenever possible. The local students involved are Mike Aymotte, Craig Saunders, Sean Saunders, Jenny Woods, Kathy Woods, Rick Barnum and Suzan Milne.

The band is currently laying plans to take a one week tour at the beginning of next July. They hope to work their way towards Ottawa and back doing one night concerts in small towns through eastern and central Ontario. Not only do they have a great deal of talent but they also have no shortage of enthusiasm and ambition too.

If you have some ideas on keeping this band busy contact Craig Saunders at 286-2837.

Planning committee a priority

Planning and future development of the township will take a high priority for the new reeve of Anson, Hindon and Minden townships. Councillor Lyle McKnight was elected to the post Monday in the municipal election, defeating incumbent Lloyd Walker.

"The formation of a planning committee will be one of my first priorities," McKnight stated Tuesday morning. He said the committee will be responsible for a great deal of preliminary work that goes into preparing such documents at the amended zoning by-law or in laying the groundwork for an official plan.

McKnight said he envisioned the committee including two members of council, the by-law enforcement officer and members of the public. The exact size of the committee is something the new reeve plans to discuss with the council which takes office at the beginning of December.

The reeve-elect said he might consider using some of the individuals who now serve the municipality on the Committee of Adjustment. This group considers minor changes to the municipality's zoning by-law as requested by ratepayers. He noted that these people have experience in zoning matters and their expertise could be put to good use on a planning committee.

Other important issues facing the municipality as it heads into 1983, according to McKnight, include the preparation of the new zoning by-law for the municipality. He said that some of the problems the council has experienced with preparing and presenting the new by-law might have not occurred if a planning committee had been in place to study the document in detail before bringing the matter to the council for consideration.

McKnight stated that the planning committee would also be charged with laying the groundwork for the municipality's official plan. The creation of an official plan for the townships was one of the platforms in McKnight's election campaign.

The new reeve said he was pleased with the results of the Monday night election. He said he was very encouraged by the strong endorsement he was given by the voters of the townships.

He said he hoped to be able to provide strong leadership at the county level, bringing the municipality back to the prominent position it deserves to occupy at the central council.

Shooters elect executive

The Haliburton County Marksmen Club has elected a new executive. The group's annual meeting was held Sunday in Minden.

Major Glynne Lewis will head the organization for the coming year. Assisting the president will be vice president Stu Brandon and secretary-treasurer Jeff Lodenquai

Other positions on the club's executive were also filled with Boyd Jarvis being named handgun captain; V. Toutant the rifle captain; Pete Anderson shotgun captain with Lloyd Brown assisting.

preferential treatment." The camp was three miles from Hamelin, "you know, there the Pied Piper played" and coincidentally six miles from Minden Germany.

"It was in an area very similar to this. It was a beautiful place but of course I was in the camp."

The prisoners were well treated in the camp, but food was a problem. All food was canned and from the Red Cross except for the fresh rolls and butter British officers received from the Danes and the odd bowl of cabbage soup. The Germans used to shoot birds. "They had lots of ammunition but no food."

Harry returned home after the war was over in 1919. He received three service medals during his tour of duty but "no heroes' medals. I was fortunate to get away with my life," he commented, reflecting on the short odds he had beaten.

"It was a great experience. I don't regret being a prisoner of war."

Harry has warm memories of his years in the service, but he deplores the waste of war. "The suffering was terrible. When the war came close a farmer (in Europe) would hook up his horse, throw a couple of pigs in his wagon, tie the cow to the back and move just ahead of the lines. When the war surged the other way he'd go back to his ruined house. It was terrible.

"Fortunately, and I do say fortunately, I was rejected for service in WWII because I'm colour blind. Also I wasn't as young and my reactions were slower."

Recently Harry has lived at Hyland Crest and Sunrise Apartments in Minden. He belongs to the World War I Flyers Club.

Canadians.

They dressed in white and assembled a flotilla of about 10 canoes with two men each and six flat bottomed boats carrying six men each. The more manoeuvrable canoes went ahead to engage the Germans and enable the clumsy flat bottomed boats to land. The canoes would be able to cut the Germans off.

"We thought we were being smart but the Germans were smarter. They let us pass and cut the hell out of the men in the flat boats."

Charlie was a corporal at that time leading nine "kids" into the fray. (When he was away from action he would be busted and lose his stripes because of his fondness for bingeing on Cognac. "I was up and down like a toilet seat.")

The one day assault turned into a three day bloodbath during which almost 300 men lost their lives or were wounded. The Germans had constructed a tunnel under the river without the Canadians' knowledge. "We'd just clear off the island and the next day it would be full of Germans again."

The tunnel was found and the ruse halted but in that time Charlie lost eight of his nine men.

But "the Dutch people were great to Canadians and still are. They opened up their homes to us. They suffered too, the Germans took everything they had."

After he fought through France, Belgium, Holland and advanced as far as Olandburg Germany the war stopped. He was discharged and was back in Canada before 1945 was finished.

"The older fellows were like your father and mother, and you respected them because they tried to keep you out of trouble. The younger fellows were like your brothers.

Vimy Ridge remembered

April of this year marked the 65th anniversary of the Battle of Vimy Ridge.

Seen in retrospect this was the battle, more than any other, in which Canada came to full maturity as one of the major nations of the world. Although troops from many nations participated, this was mainly a Canadian action.

One hundred thousand men went over the top that Easter Monday morning - at the end of the day eleven thousand lay dead - many more were mortally wounded. The Great War was destined to continue for another year and a half but this battle was a turning point in the conflict.

Shortly after the cessation of hostilities, plans were set in motion to build a monument to commemorate the Battle of Vimy Ridge, and in the 30's this began to take shape atop the Ridge. In these early years the Canadian Legion began to lay plans to take as many of the veterans as possible back to France for the unveiling. This was a tremendous undertaking on the part of the young Dominion Command and the Branches throughout the country.

In the end five great liners were berthed in Montreal in the early summer of 1936, ready to take on board the thousands of men who were returning, some for the first and only time, the the places they had known so well 20 years earlier. The individual branches of the Legion had raised the money for the passage and also provided each man with spending money.

The boys who had fought in the Great War were now men in the noonday of their lives and this was another historic moment for them. The Monument was unveiled in July 1936 by King Edward VIII, himself a war veteran. After the ceremony, as the veterans approached the now famous shaft of stone, it was perceived that the French, in their compassion and wisdom, had carved the Christian names only of the fallen upon the face of the monument, thus ensuring that all were remembered equally.

These men returned home to their growing families and in a few short years many of them were back in the service of their country again, many alongside their sons and were once more striving to defend the same principals they had fought for barely one generation earlier.

Today some of them are still in our midst "as leaves in wintry weather". With the passing of the last of them in a few years, a magnificent chapter of Canadian history will have passed beyond the memory of living man.

Of such stuff is a nation forged and made strong - they and their sons, two unique generations - the like of which will never be seen again.

A street to avoid

Highland Street in Haliburton seemed to pose problems for drivers November 4, the scene where two accidents causing $3,900 damage occurred eight hours apart.

At 9:00 a.m. Patricia Clarkson, 44, of Dysart was driving her 1978 AMC model car at the intersection of Highland and Cedar Streets when her vehicle and the one being driven by John Wallace, 47, of R.R. 5 Bancroft collided. Damage to the AMC and the 1974 Plymouth, Wallace was driving, amounted to $1,100. Wallace was charged with failing to yield right-of-way at an intersection.

Investigated by PC Wim Magee.

Three cars were involved in the second accident which took place at 5:00 p.m.

Roy Creelman, 72, of Dysart began the chain of events when he drove his 1971 Toyota from a parked position. Tyerone Dewey, 32, of Gooderham, driving a 1972 Plymouth struck the left side causing $1,500 damage to the Toyota and $800 to the Plymouth. A 1977 Buick owned by Mark Vasey Ltd. received $500 damage when it was hit by Creelman's car.

Creelman was charged with making an unsafe move from a parked position and Dewey with driving under suspension.

Investigated by Corporal Steve Adam.

Deer killed

A police cruiser was involved in one of two accidents with deer over the past week.

The cruiser, driven by Constable Bob Pearson, was proceeding on Highway 118 west of Carnarvon last Friday evening when it struck the deer. The collision resulted in $1,000 damage to the car and loss of life for the deer.

Another car successfully bagged a deer on Highway 121 south of Minden. The accident occurred Sunday, November 7 and caused $300 damage to the car.

The deer meat was distributed among welfare recipients.

Cottage break-ins

Nine break and enters occurred on South Beaver Road in Lutterworth Township. Contacting cottagers to assess property loss will involve police in a lengthy process. It was noted however, that some cottages seemed to have only food and liquor removed.

The incidents are being investigated by PC Mike Smith.

Found property

An aluminum canoe and two bicycles require proper identification to be returned to their owners. The canoe was found on Lake Kashagawigamog near the Royal View Lodge.

These items can be claimed any time during office hours, at the Minden OPP detachment.

Bishop visits congregation

Parishes in the Minden charge of the Anglican Church were hosts to a special visitor this past weekend as the Suffragan Bishop of the Diocese of Toronto, Bishop Desmond Hunt, visited the area.

Bishop Hunt, accompanied by his wife Naomi, took part in the Sunday morning service at St. Paul's Church in Minden and then met parishioners at a pot luck luncheon which followed.

A combined service of St. Peter's Maple Lake and St. Stephen's Boskung, was held during the afternoon at Boskung. Members of both congregations then gathered at St. Peter's church for a supper and social evening.

Before leaving the area, Bishop Hunt, accompanied by Reverend George Elliott of the Minden charge, visited Hyland Crest to talk with a number of seniors, Monday morning.

Do you remember the days of "ban the can"? In the early 1970's, one of the most celebrated environmental issues was fought over the lowly pop can. Environmental advocates sought regulations to have all soft drinks sold in returnable bottles, similar to beer, so that the litter problems and energy waste of throw-away cans would be avoided. What we got was regulations controlling the type of cans, and an official objective of 75% refillable containers in Ontario stores.

That compromise is about to be changed. Over the past few weeks, industry groups have been lobbying fiercely for relaxed rules. Ministry of Environment officials claim that the present rules are unenforcable, with only 50% of soft drinks now sold in refillables. The successful marketing of trays of 24 cans, and the unpopularity of returnable 1.5 litre pop bottles have worsened this trend. Now the provincial government has set up a three-member task group to examine changes in the regulations, and to make recommendations to the Minister of Environment.

That task group has heard submissions from 18 industry groups so far, but not one consumer or environmental group. They claim that some form of public consultation will take place before final decisions are made, but consultation now, after the industry has already had its say, is likely to be nothing but a charade. In any case, it appears that all of the options presented will involve loosening of the regulations to varying degrees.

One strong possibility is the approval of a new all-aluminum can to be introduced by Alcan. In quiet discussions, the company's representatives have been saying that the traditional tin can is obsolete, and that the aluminum can will offer significant advantages for recycling. As a sweetener, the company will likely propose some form of industry-sponsored recycling system, with a small deposit paid on each can. On the face of it, the idea sounds good, but most environmentalists will be looking for guarantees that recycling would continue beyond the first year or two when its public relations value has diminished.

Home earns accreditation

Haliburton's Extendicare Nursing Home has earned three-year accredited status - the highest category of accreditation granted to an active treatment or long-term care facility by the Canadian Council on Hospital Accreditation (CCHA).

Earning three-year accredited status signifies the nursing home has met, or surpassed, standards established by the CCHA. "The Council is a voluntary organization comprising members of the Canadian medical, hospital, long-term care and nurses' associations," says Shiela Elston, Administrator of Extendicare / Haliburton. "The purpose of the CCHA accreditation program is to promote a high quality of care and to establish standards of hospitals and long-term care facilities."

The Haliburton nursing home was surveyed by a representative of the CCHA on September 2. The representative, an executive staff member of a Toronto hospital, examined the organization structure, environmental services and the resident care program. "In the accreditation process special emphasis is placed on resident care, activity programs and safety," says Elston. "The CCHA representative took a careful look at everything that affects the delivery of care to our residents and at all things that contribute to the quality of each resident's lifestyle."

The nursing home's ability to earn three-year status has proven that its staff has a genuine interest in residents and that they continually attempt to provide a home-like atmosphere, says Elston. "The staff here is terrific," she says. "They deserve the type of compliment they have just been awarded by the Council. Earning Accreditation is similar to being awarded a 'Good Housekeeping Seal of Approval.' It's a credit to our staff," Elston commented.

Michael Byrnes of Minden displays Tommy's Big Buck trophy for the largest deer taken in Haliburton County. The animal weighed 218 lbs and had a 9 point rack. The Ministry of Natural Resources estimated the number of deer taken was down due to weather conditions.

Huskies may fold

After a season that has seen one tie and ten losses, the future of the Haliburton Huskies Junior C team is in serious jeopardy.

Several team officials have suggested that unless the Huskies receive better support from players, they may be forced to withdraw from the league without completing the 1982 - 83 season.

One member of the Huskies organization pointed out that the team's sponsors have been backing the team, many officials have been donating their time and efforts to ensure the success of the squad, but that a seeming lack of dedication on the part of some players has left the Huskies ill-prepared to meet the opposition.

An official pointed out that the team has a good core group of players, but they are not large enough in number to ensure the team's success. He pointed out that some players have been missing games and practices which hurt the team's performance. Losses, such as those sustained the past two weekends, in which the Huskies were trounced by large scores, create further pessimism. He said that unless all players are willing to give the team their support, the management will shut the squad down to spare the others the frustrations and expense of icing less than a full team.

A decision on the future of the team is expected in the next few weeks.

The Haliburton Huskies were the victims of another rout, this time by the Penetang Kings. The Kings racked up an 11 to 1 win outplaying the Huskies for about 50 of the 60 minutes, Saturday evening in Haliburton.

The score does not reflect the play of goalie Colin Newell. The gutsy little goalie treated the crowd to some good net tending, necessary of an almost complete lack of defence. The obviously shell-shocked goalie was replaced late in the third by Duane Lennie.

The only vestige of offence displayed, was that of speedy forward, Kevin Warburton.

Sunday evening with 12 players the Huskies were defeated 16 - 3. Kevin Warburton picked up a pair of goals for the Huskies, while Kelly Mitchell netted the other marker.

The Huskies travel to Parry Sound Friday and are out of town again Sunday, when they play Gravenhurst.

The Huskies beseige the Penetang Kings' goaltender in a rare concerted attack during the game Saturday night. The Huskies lost the game 11 goals to 1.

Patio expansion proposed

A plan to extend the patio of the Rockcliffe Tavern was presented at the October 27 meeting of Anson, Hindon and Minden township council. Tavern owner Dave Willis was in attendance to explain the proposal and obtain "council's blessing".

According to the owner, the expansion would mean extending the present patio 10 feet further toward the south parking lot and adding extra seating along the side of the existing building.

Willis said he planned to incorporate some type of screening into the expansion although he wasn't sure as to the design. He said he wasn't sure if the Liquor Control Board of Ontario would permit the construction of a screen, but he would determine whether it was possible when making the formal application for the expansion. He said the screen would probably be constructed of wood.

Councillor Larry Cummins said, "The barrier would eliminate one of the problems we've heard from residents." Reeve Lloyd Walker added, "It would be an improvement."

The council instructed by-law enforcement officer Dick Schell to examine the proposed plans to ensure they meet with building standards. If approved, the expanded patio is expected to be ready for next spring.

Juvenile Fiction

Title: Moon Dragon. Author: Fran Manuskhking.

Juvenile Non-Fiction

Title: Mr. Penney. Author: H. J. Albus.

In story form, this biography tells of how Mr. J.C. Penney became so successful and how he applied "The Golden Rule" to his businesses and his life. Good story of a fine man.

Adult Fiction

Title: Swords and Crowns and Rings. Author: Ruth Park.

A baby born in a small Australian town at the beginning of the century turns out to be a dwarf. His father rejects him in disgust, but his mother, determined to make his life as normal and happy as possible, comforts him with stories of the magic past, of the enchanted dwarves of folklore who labored beneath the earth to forge swords and crowns and rings for gods and heroes. But little Jackie Hanna is no enchanted gnome - he is a real boy, growing into a real man. The only magic in his life is the love he feels for little Cushy Moy, the banker's daughter who lives next door - a girl as soft and pink and generous in nature as she is beautiful.

But how can their love endure? Swept apart by events beyond their control, the two lovers embark upon separate, dangerous quests, struggling through moments of degradation born of despair, treasuring dark, poignant memories of dead hope and bitter love. And through it all, the force of their love, a force equal to any enchantment, sustains Jackie and Cushy as it sustains the reader who discovers in this powerful, moving tale a sense of magic that lingers in the mind like the warm glow of an autumn sunset. A very sad and moving book.

Adult Non-Fiction

Title: Trees for the Yard, Orchard & Woodlot. Author: Roger Yepson Jr.

Not only are trees an ornament for your lawn but if you plant and tend your trees wisely they can also bring enjoyment and some self-sufficiency. The author has used his own experiences with trees plus nine other authorities.

Farm assistance still available

- Ag. report -

Farmers will remember hearing or reading about the Ontario Farm Adjustment Assistance Program when it was being actively promoted early in 1982.

This program is available during the full 12 months of 1982. As we are now into November, we'd like to remind farmers that there are less than 2 months remaining for this current assistance program.

While over 3,000 farmers across Ontario are already benefitting from this assistance, there are a number of other farmers who are eligible to participate, and who could certainly benefit from the Farm Adjustment Assistance Program.

We've been told a variety of reasons why some eligible farmers haven't applied. Let's review the situation in Victoria County in an effort to answer some of these reasons.

To date, we've had 55 Victoria farmers apply - 10 of these have beef cattle, 11 have dairy cattle, 12 have swine, 9 are mainly cash cropping and the rest have a mixture of farm enterprises.

Several of these farmers are very young and have only been farming for a year or two - and several are older farmers who have 30 or more years of experience. Some have bought their farms in the past few years and some are the third and fourth generations on that farm.

Some farmers believe there is a lot of paper work required with the application. However, most of the 55 applicants to date, found that most of the paper work involved, were items which they had already completed and filed with their banker, so there was little additional work required.

To be eligible, a farmer must meet the following criteria. First, he must have less than 60% equity in his farm, and should have more than 10% equity. The farm must have produced food products worth over $12,000 in 1981. The interest and principal payments on the farm must be more than 20% of the operating costs.

What are the benefits of the Farm Adjustment Assistance Program? The 55 county farmers already involved have bank loans with floating interest rates, of well over $10,000,000 - they are all receiving interest rebate grants of up to 5% on those loans for 12 months. Some of these farmers have received additional guaranteed operating loans - these are loans which their banks would not give them without the support of the guarantee.

We feel there are a number of farmers who are eligible, and who could benefit from this program over the coming 12 months. If you are in this category, or even think you might be, don't wait until the last week in December to find out.

Talk to your bank manager or the staff in your County Agricultural Office right away.

Senior exercise programs offered

Exercise and the Information and Referral Centre were among the matters reported on at the October meeting of the Haliburton County Home Services.

Seniors throughout the county may join with the seniors living in the apartments in Haliburton and Minden in the "warm up motions" conducted by two trained volunteers, Isobel Clay, Minden 286-2895, and Connie Love, Haliburton, 457-2725. Call them if you are interested, it's free, and up to 15 may enroll. Jim Ross plans to lead the Monmouth residents in this program as well at the Senior Citizens club in Wilberforce. His number is 448-2645 if you are interested.

An initial report on the first training sessions for volunteers to man the recently opened Information and Referral Centre was given by Leo Dobrzensky. Fifteen volunteers are presently enrolled, and have been receiving stimulating and helpful training by a number of guest speakers: Jane Heppleston of Canada Manpower Outreach; Bob Stinson of the Haliburton Chamber of Commerce; Marion Tallman, Public Health Nurse; and our own Doris McCann. They have been learning how to handle enquiries, how to use the filing system and existing services, and above all of the need for absolute confidentiality. The second session, when the volunteers were given practical training through role-playing, was considerably enlivened by receipt of two genuine telephone enquiries!

As a result of a suggestion that the present payment of $2.00 per meal to suppliers of Meals on Wheels was insufficient to cover the cost, the meeting endorsed a plan of paying private suppliers a total of $3.00 per meal, without increasing the cost of $2.00 to the recipient, the extra dollar to come from the Help the Aged grant in those areas (Wilberforce, Gooderham, West Guilford, Harcourt) covered by that grant. It was noted that some suppliers had been offered an increase and had refused it, on the grounds of being satisfied at present.

Saturday night was Hallowe'en night here at Hyland Crest. To guess who the trick or treat ones were, we did our very best. It was our own Linda, and Doris' sor. had on the most gorgeous costumes. I wish you could have seen them. We had lots of treats in store, treated all who came our way, and could have treated more.

Nice service in the chapel Sunday night. Rev. Burgess spoke about the woman taken in adultery, brought in all alone, thrown down at Jesus' feet and said she should be stoned. Jesus looked at her accusers, and said, "You without sin, if you say this woman should be stoned, you are the ones to begin." They hung their heads and stole away feeling awfully sore. Jesus turned to the woman and said, "Go, and sin no more."

Mrs. Stutt's daughter Ruth's birthday is the last day of October, and she had her in to dine. We're not sure how old she was. I think about thirty-nine.

Edith Welch's son Ron, came up to his Aunt's funeral, which was a very nice thing to do. He came up, dined with his mother and Carrie too.

My sister, Blanche, has written a book about their lives at Peace River, where they lived on buffalo steaks, and bear's liver.

I told the nurses my ankles were swelling. They said, "If you will condescend, we'll give you a shot in the rear end."

Millie Wood is making chair cushions. She makes one a day. She says it helps pass the time away.

Rev. George Elliott held communion service in the chapel this Tuesday in the absence of Mrs. Taylor, Mrs. Rose came to play. We are sorry to learn Mrs. Taylor is back in hospital. We hope she will be out soon.

Tuesday night, and while Earle Cooper is away hunting deer, his wife and sister Kathy came to entertain us here. We had a real good time, but missed Earle on the fiddle. We couldn't take our partner by the hand, and promenade down the middle.

Ada Lewis has been away on a few days holiday. We really missed her while she was away.

The ladies in the craft room are working too hard by far. Making all kinds of articles for their Christmas bazaar.

Thursday afternoon the tea party was put on by the Minden W.I. It was a grand party, and I'll tell you why. The ladies said they just couldn't sing, but they read some humorous poems, much pleasure they did bring. They brought in a lovely lunch, and served it up so grand. I think they deserved, and got, a real good hand.

Sorry to report we have Violet Deumo in hospital with pains in her chest. We hope her stay won't be too long, we wish for her the best.

Don't forget our Christmas bazaar November tenth here at Hyland Crest. Try to come early, ahead of all the rest.

Thursday night is Bingo night here at Hyland Crest. Members of the Kinsman Club are our special guests. They operate the bingo, and do the job just fine. We thank them for coming and giving of their time.

Financial aid for Bicroft water system

Environment Ontario is funding 75 per cent of the cost for upgrading the Bicroft Heights water supply system, George Mierzynski, the Ministry's Central Regional Director announced recently.

Bicroft Heights, located close to the community of Cardiff received its drinking water from an old system that served the now abandoned Bicroft Mine area.

"Numerous breakdowns and freeze-ups of the old system led the 50 residents to search for alternative sources of drinking water" said Mr. Mierzynski. "These alternative sources often did not meet Environment Ontario water quality requirements and a low cost program was developed to give the residents a dependable and potable water source."

Water will be pumped from the wells near the community of Cardiff located within Bicroft 2800 metres to Bicroft Heights. A special insulated water main and an automatic heating system will be used to prevent winter freezing. Included in the project is a booster pumping station. The water main will cross highway 121 and also cross both Mink and Deer Creeks.

Total cost of the project is $257,500 and the Ministry of the Environment's contribution is $193,127. The remainder of the cost will be paid by the Township of Bicroft. Construction of the system will start in early fall and be done by the public works staff of the township. The project is expected to be completed by the end of this year.

The Moth

It beat upon my window pane,
This creature of the night
From deep within the swamp
it came
Attracted by the light.
I pulled the curtain back to see
This lovely thing of grace
Its slender pale green body
And little gnome like face.
But, oh the beauty of its wings
Magnificent, sublime,
Like colours of a Persian rug
Set in the bright sunshine.
Just for a fleeting moment
And then away it flew
Back to the forest whence it came
The moth was lost to view.
I marvelled at the little thing
The great Creator made
The lovely jewel that was set
Within the forest glade.

Mrs. L. Cox, president opened the October 20 meeting of Minden Women's Institute at Library Cultural Centre by reading a verse.

After the usual opening, reports were read by the secretary and treasurer. Mrs. W. Moore reported sending 15 cards since the last meeting and collections for the card fund and pennies for friendship were taken. Several thank you notes were read. Plans were made for Victoria East District Tea at Fenelon Falls on October 27 with members to supply baking, crafts for display and cars for transportation. Plans were also made for serving tea at Hyland Crest with members offering food and their services for this.

Happy Birthday was sung to Charlotte O'Neil. It was mentioned that all should bring gifts for the Christmas Cheer baskets to the next meeting. Maud Coulter, added her touch, by reading an amusing verse "She Guessed."

May Spence, then read an interesting article on Queen's Park in Toronto. The article included interesting insights into the construction, architecture and some amusing incidents, even about some ghosts. She was thanked for an excellent paper.

Nineteen members answered the roll call "of an interesting city and why" and this was almost a travelogue. One guest was made welcome.

Lunch was served by the committee and a social half hour followed. Next meeting will be at the same place, November 17 at 2 p.m. with all ladies welcome.

Hi kids.

Did you like the snow on Saturday? Our kids did. It was nice packing snow for snowballs and snowmen. I hope you had fun.

I received a letter from my two friends in Calgary, and was very pleased to hear from them. They sent along these jokes.

Q: What do you call a carrot that insults the cook?
A: A fresh vegetable.

Q: What has 400 teeth and says "Beware of Dog?"
A: A picket fence with a sign on it.

Q: What did the boy become on his first day of school?
A: Confused.

Q: Why did the boy throw the clock out the window?
A: He wanted to see time fly.

Riddle:

It has dozens of keys. Some dark, some light. Some midnight black, some moonlight white. The white are big. The black are small. And they open nothing, nothing at all. What is it?
